Wednesday's Edition.

REMOVAL OF TERRITORIAL JUDGES.

When the territorial judges of this Territory were summarily removed by President Cleveland, this paper assumed the position that it was an exercise of authority not vested in his office. In the position we were almost alone among the press of the territory. It now seems that the Senate entertains the same views which this paper took of the case. A telegram from Washington says: "The next movement of the territorial judges in their removal by the Administration will probably be to pass a resolution calling upon the Attorney General for information as to the authority under which ten Justices of the United States Courts for the Territories have been suspended. Section 1768 of the Revised Statutes says that during any recess of the Senate the President is authorized, in his discretion, to suspend any civil officer appointed by and with the consent of the Senate except judges of the Courts of the United States. President Cleveland has suspended three Chief Justices of the Territories and seven associate Justices, which action is held by the Judiciary Committee to be in violation of the section above quoted. The Administration will probably take the ground that the Territorial Justices are not Justices of the United States Courts in the meaning of this statute, but the Republican members of the Judiciary Committee argue that they are, that they belong as much to the Federal Judiciary as a District Judge in a State, and that all Judges appointed by the President of the United States are Judges of the United States. They claim that this exception was placed in the law, as the debate at the time will show, in order to protect the Judiciary of the Territories from executive interference while the Senate is not in session. They are fixed for a term, and if the President had the right to remove the Justices at pleasure he could exercise a dictatorship over the Courts. This question will probably be discussed in open session, but just how it will be brought out has not been decided."

H. J. Wurzburg and family will leave to-morrow morning for their new home in San Diego, where the former goes to establish a clothing house. Mr. and Mrs. Wurzburg have many friends who regret exceedingly their departure. The opening of the San Diego house will in no way affect the business of the house here, as the senior partner, Mr. Kuhn, will remain in charge of the Prescott house and has recently made large purchases in the east for the spring trade.

The company in which Charles W. Beach is interested, Messrs. Comstock & Co., have purchased from Mary L. Miller two ranches and 100 acres in Kirkland valley, the purchase price being $22,000. This purchase gives the company a range of about 19 miles in length. They have also purchased 160 acres of land on which Telegraph spring is located from Joseph Ellis. This property is located about three miles south of Copper Basin.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous complaints, after having tried his wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Accustomed by this relief, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by address. With stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, New York.

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine.

For March well sustains the reputation of this favorite family monthly. The opening article is "The Origin of the New York Churches," and is really a religious history of New York city. It is profusely illustrated with views of the city at different periods, several of the early and now destroyed church buildings, and portraits of eminent persons connected with them. A curious article, entitled "Fish out of Water," with its still more curious illustrations, will attract the attention of the naturalist. Prof. Elliott's second article on "Instinctive Architecture," treats of the feathered species, "Dilettante Days" takes us into Holland, and shows us some views there. The Rev. Edward A. Rand contributes a short but interesting article on "Atheism," where great work on the Atonement is a standard even now. Two additional Parables, three more Sacred Musings, the continuation of "Parables," the "conclusion of 'Love's Harvest,'" several beautiful poems, and an abundance of short articles, all go to make up a very interesting number, while the illustrations are unusually fine.

Another Shining Enterprise.

Captain A. T. Braun, of "Lucky Creek," has received orders from Messrs. Hays, to start up the Arizona Consolidated mill, as soon as possible. Owing to the recent illness of St. A. Hays, he is unable to come here at present to superintend operations, hence the above instructions. A large amount of ore is already out ready to run and a large amount is sight ready to take out and we hope to see a long and successful run. Captain Braun is an experienced mill man and will bring about him all the elements of success for the enterprise. The Morning Glory mine, as far as developed, is a very promising property, and we sincerely hope to be able to give good accounts of future operations of this company.
